no option to reverse

The workflow was confusing since there are only courses page available, hard to test only based on that.

At least they work now in this concept. In the actual system not always does.

Very good design

Would prefer button directly for transcripts, like courses have

All courses, both registered and unregistered, in one section?

I think it was pretty understandable and the only thing confusing me was to understand which buttons work in this demo version. If it was a legitimate website/app and everything was working, it wouldn't be difficult to understand it.

it was alright

I would need to test more sections. I could only access course registration. The design was okay but the colors felt a little bit off. Color red also feels alarming, I would change it to maybe yellow or something else.

It was very simple, perhaps even too simple, that I'd just like to see and double check if I've enrolled in the course. The message popped up, but I would always refresh the webpage just to see if it still says registered. I think there's nothing to change or improve, as it was easy, just my personal opinion on this.
